MEMBER BENEFITS

CompTIA Membership

Channel Education

CompTIA provides a number of channel education training and support resources to help channel members succeed. These vendor-neutral courses cover a variety of vertical markets and segments, as well as foundational business topics. Channel education is available for solution providers as well as delivery at vendor and distributor member conferences. This education includes live channel training workshops, quick start sessions, and extensive resource guides.

CompTIA Networking and Events

CompTIA events and meetings bring the IT community together for networking and discussions about the latest trends in technology and business. Members may attend national conferences, executive forums, regional events, and virtual meetings—receiving free registrations or significant member discounts. Annual events include:

- CompTIA Annual Member Meeting
- CompTIA Breakaway
- CompTIA Webinars—Free online sessions with vendor-neutral educational topics

CompTIA Research

CompTIA has an extensive market research program. Every year, at least 20 new research studies provide members with timely, relevant data and assessments that can be immediately incorporated into business and marketing plans, education, and sales strategies. CompTIA members are encouraged to participate directly in the research process by providing guidance on topics and assisting in the design and formulation of the studies. CompTIA members enjoy full access to all current and archived reports, presentations, and white papers.

Global Certifications and Credentials

Hiring certified workers means higher customer satisfaction, increased productivity, and lower employee turnover. Several of the technology industry's largest vendors and distributors mandate CompTIA certifications for specific IT positions within their organizations. A CompTIA business credential demonstrates that an IT channel organization adheres to industry best practices in a specific field or discipline. Earning a business credential shows existing and potential customers that your business has the dedication, knowledge, and resources to perform quality service.

Advocacy

CompTIA is your voice in state and federal governments. Having a strong advocate for the IT business community has never been more important than in today's global economy. CompTIA represents the interests of small and large IT companies, and the IT workforce, before a variety of government officials and policy-makers.

Philanthropy

CompTIA is committed to lifting up people through philanthropy and spotlighting IT as a compassionate profession. At the center of the association's charitable efforts is the Creating IT Futures Foundation, with a mission to help individuals in need and populations under-represented in IT to prepare for and secure IT careers (and ensure their success).

CompTIA Communities

CompTIA communities are the foundation of the association's membership initiatives, programs, education, and research. These member-driven groups consisting of IT professionals, vendors, distributors, and thought leaders, offer members the opportunity to lead initiatives and collaborate with peers to advance a specific area of interest within the IT industry. CompTIA communities include:

Member Resources
